Maison Chaplais is a gourmet delicatessen and bakery in the Tivoli area of Cheltenham. The man who lends his name to this domicile of delicacies, Maurice Chaplais, is an internationally renowned baking consultant with a flair for creating and sourcing unique and extraordinary products; try his pain au levain, which takes three days to make and has no yeast or fat. The flavour and texture of the breads make them a delight to eat on their own, but you can also enjoy them as chunky doorstep-style sandwiches in the café; the smoked salmon and egg variety is irresistible.

Now selling and serving a selection of unusual and carefully sourced wines, Maison Chaplais is the perfect setting for a relaxed drink with friends. Equally, if you are embarking on a quest for the perfect gift, Maurice and the team will ensure you take away something special. You might like the sound of over 80 artisan cheeses, or chocolates from the only remaining West Indian cocoa plantation. You can
